PREVENT PRETERM LABOR!

Preterm or premature labor happens when a woman goes into labor before 37 weeks. (3 weeks prior to their due date) This is too early for a baby to be born. Babies born too soon can have lifelong or life-threatening health problems.

KNOW THE WARNING SIGNS OF PRETERM LABOR

Contractions (abdomen tightens like a fist) every 10 minutes or more often.

Changes in vaginal discharge (leaking fluid or bleeding from vagina).

Pelvic pressure – the feeling that baby is pushing down.

Low, dull backache.

Cramps that feel like your period.

Abdominal cramps with or without diarrhea.

WHAT YOU SHOULD DO IF YOU THINK YOU ARE HAVING PRETERM LABOR

Call health care provider (nurse, doctor or midwife) or go to the hospital right away if you think you are having preterm labor.

Call even if you have only one sign.

YOUR HEALTH CARE PROVIDER MAY TELL YOU TO:

Come into the office or go to the hospital for a checkup.

Stop what you are doing. Rest on left side for one hour.

Drink 2-3 glasses of water or juice (not coffee or soda).

If the symptoms get worse or do not go away after one hour, call provider again or go to the hospital. If the symptoms get better, relax for the rest of the day.

A Couple’s Concern

As couples prepare for pregnancy, it is easy to focus only on the woman’s health. However, becoming healthier and more fit in the preconception period, the time before pregnancy, is not just a concern of the woman, but of the couple.

Here is our parents-to-be to do list:

- Get a check up – hypertension, diabetes, obesity, STDs, and everyday stressors may affect sexual health.
- Move more, eat less – exercise and healthy and nutritious eating are good for a host of ailments.
- Stop smoking, drinking alcohol, and using recreational drugs.
- Finally, partners should consider their emotional health; new moms and even dads may suffer some form of postpartum depression.

Forsyth County Healthy Start Baby Love Plus is committed to the promotion of women, children, and families’ health and meets different segments of the community to provide education and to offer support in accessing local services. Our focus means that community conversations center on health issues and concerns of new mothers, women, children, and families. We offer post-partum follow-up for families for two years.

Visit us on Facebook to learn more about the work we do and to join us in discussions on matters related to women’s, children’s and families’ health.
