The population served by Horizons not only live with profound intellectual and developmental disabilities, but they also have complicated and compounding medical conditions - which further increases their vulnerability to airborne and bloodborne pathogens. quality-of-life impacts as well as civil rights impacts. The client will be moved from the standard congregate care environment.
Brief description of recipient's approach to ensuring that response is reasonable and proportional to a public health or negative economic impact of Covid-19	Horizons will successfully prevent potential radical alterations to how our state and local governments are involved in the care of our significantly vulnerable and care-intensive clients. As a result of Olmstead v L.C., the state of North Carolina has been forced to re-assess the right of an individual to live in a home-equivalent environment. This, in turn, will transition the "cost of care" - of a significant number of I/DD clients - from organizations like Horizons, to state and local.

Brief description of structure and objectives of assistance program(s), including public health or negative economic impact experienced	The individuals we traditionally assist with direct financial assistance are those below a 200% Federal Poverty Guideline. Given the definition from NACo defines disproportionately impacted communities as those at or below 185% FPG, we would revise our qualification to align with this definition in order to meet the needs of individuals facing cancer in need of financial assistance during their cancer treatment and recovery.
Brief description of recipient's approach to ensuring that response is reasonable and proportional to a public health or negative economic impact of Covid-19	When individuals are facing cancer, it's extremely likely they will be out of work during some part of their treatment. This means financial needs often arise during their term of treatment and they will need help with rent, utilities, food, transportation, prescriptions and medical supplies. Even with insurance there are many unmet needs during cancer treatment. Expected impacts from this proposal would be a reduction in apparatus fleet maintenance expenses for the departments awarded apparatus and reduced tax impacts in the fire districts serviced by these fire departments. Departments would also see a reduction in the down time of their fire apparatus due to maintenance issues further increasing their ability to respond to the

These programs will be free of charge for the youth and located directly in the community so the youth can walk or ride their bikes to get there.

Brief description of recipient's approach to ensuring that response is reasonable and proportional to a public health or negative economic impact of Covid-19

Since the onset of the COVID 19 pandemic in the United States, two other free clinics in our community have either closed or stopped receiving any new patients and are limiting patient visits to telemedicine medication refills only. Since we remain fully operational, new patients from these clinics as well as those individuals who have lost jobs and the healthcare associated with those jobs are slowly seeking out our Clinic to care for their healthcare needs.

Description	The Rural Hall Highway 65 Waterline Extension Project is designed to provide public water access to existing homes of residents currently relying on private wells with a risk of contamination. The source of the contamination is a landfill located adjacent to the west boundary of Freedom Baptist Church. A large majority of the existing private wells used by residents in the project area were built in the 1930s to 1940s. Many wells are considered large diameter bored wells, also surface wells, which are dependent upon adequate rainfall and are more susceptible to contaminants. There are several situations where a well is shared by two households where the quantity of water is low and a new well cannot be drilled Forsyth Futures reports COVID-19 could “impact long-term social mobility in Forsyth County” by disrupting education, citing barriers in technology, access and language that may increase learning loss. Learning has been disrupted for all students, in fact, only 2022 seniors will have had at least one “regular” school year, uninterrupted by virtual learning and its accompanying challenges, which will result in multi-year impacts for both high-performing students as well as those who already face academic challenges.

Current housing is not affordable to most of these individuals and – for what is available – there is a significant shortage.
